

Think of an environmental issue that might also be an emotional issue for you. Create a decision-making table that includes risks (negative consequences), and use the table to help you make a decision. Justify your decision by making persuasive use of statistics from the newspaper, Internet, or books to support your reasoning.